"Speed the parting guest."

Perhaps it is just as well that there is no Cooke in the Vermont Methodist conference, for he might spoil the broth.

There's always tally for the man who gets out of the political running, as ex-Governor Bates of Massachusetts knows when he got out of the way of the "Big Four."

So St. Johnsbury Ide has got to fight for his $75,000 fee as receiver of the Knickerbocker Trust company. It's now become a game of hide-and-seek. Still the fee appears to be his under the law, and ought to be found.

The people of Oklahoma may refuse to have the Indian sign put on them, for a Cherokee Indian has introduced a bill in the legislature to prohibit the use of the Indian figure as a cigar store sign. Thus do our old institutions get ripped up by the roots.

The statement that Dr. Pearsons of Chicago has just given $120,000 to Pomona college, in California, reminds that he has promised a substantial sum to Montpelier seminary, conditional on the raising of another sum—a work to which Principal Bishop of the seminary will now bend his every energy, having been temporarily relieved by the trustees of the active management of the school.

If Chancellor Day of Syracuse university had been in attendance at the Vermont conference yesterday afternoon there probably would have been a joint debate right away, with Bishop Cranston defending President Roosevelt and the Chancellor taking the executive fore and aft. Bishop Cranston is outspoken in his support of the president's policies regarding the trusts, which is like a red flag before a bull to the Syracuse man.

Things motor-like are progressing in Vermont when a newspaper gets out an "automobile supplement," as the Rutland Herald did yesterday. It is as The Herald says editorially, "Despite some of the bitter attacks ever directed at a growing industry, the automobile in Vermont is a fixture, and the solution of all problems between horsemen and automobilists is being reached through mutual forbearance and a 'live-and-let-live' policy that promises to find room on our beautiful highways for every conveyance that has made good its legal right."

TO-NIGHT'S LITTLE DUTY.
Republican voters in Barre will remember to-night's little duty of electing eighteen delegates and their alternates, nine of them to the Republican state convention in Burlington on April 29 and nine to the second district convention to be held in Montpelier on the 28th of April. The caucus will be held at the city court room in the City Hall, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. It is probable that no instructions will be given to the delegates, although the caucus will be the occasion for Republican voters to express their preference on the presidential nomination. Hughes of New York is probably the strongest with the rank and file of voters here.

A PROPOSED NEW RAILROAD.
The Hinesburg railroad to connect the town of that name with Burlington has been constructed so many times on paper and once a few rods of it actually on the ground, that people have grown to become skeptical every time the subject is mentioned. The actual efforts many years since resulted in the laying of a certain section of the road out of Burlington and then the project fell flat. Like truth, it has occasionally risen again; and it now comes up again in the proposition that if Hinesburg will bond for $10,000 the road will actually be built. The natural skepticism as to the likelihood of promises being fulfilled is somewhat dispersed by the fact that two such reliable men as Chauncey M. Brownell and City Judge E. C. Mower of Burlington stated them. If the proposed railroad would be likely to eventuate in another bankrupt concern, however, similar to one or two others in Vermont at the present time, Hinesburg people will do well to think twice before they bond. This business of building railroads for sentimental reasons is poor policy. But perhaps the business between the connecting points is sufficient to warrant an even break on the receipt and expense accounts—The Times is not acquainted with the exact situation—and if it is there ought to be no reason for refusal to bond. Nevertheless, it should be remembered that the section which such a railroad would tap is not an extremely favorable one as regards industrial life—there are no quarries, no large manufacturing concerns, but chiefly an agricultural section—rich, to be sure, but merely agricultural. So Hinesburg will consider the matter carefully.

CONFERENCE NOTES OF MEN AND MATTERS

Jots and Jottings of Interest to Regular and Special Readers of the Daily Times.

Among the interesting characters at conference is Rev. A. W. Ford of West Enosburg, a sweet singer whose voice often is heard above the multitude. Mr. Ford is an evangelist by both nature and training and many hundreds have been converted in the meetings he has conducted in his own churches, or in those of his brethren. Thirty years ago, in a meeting held at Granville, a young man named Frank Lewis was led to Jesus in his meeting. That young man is now the secretary of the conference and the popular presiding elder of St. Johnsbury district.

A First-class Choir.
Mention should be made of the choir at Hinesburg church, which has furnished the music for most of the afternoon and evening anniversaries. This choir is ably led by Mrs. Richard Bradley, who has a reputation throughout all this section as an excellent soloist and an able leader. Quartettes, duets and solos have supplemented the large and well trained chorus, which furnished the basis. This music has greatly helped to make the public services generally attractive.

A Generous Act.
The withdrawal of Secretary Lewis from the contest for delegate to the general conference at the close of the fourth ballot, and at a time when his vote was increasing, was a most generous act, as the result was then in doubt and he was backed by a body of loyal supporters who were determined to land him at Baltimore. This is but another indication that he always places peace above self.

Young People's Meeting Sunday.
Sunday afternoon at 3:30 at the Hinesburg Methodist church there will be held a young people's rally. There will be some special music and some inspiring congregational singing led by Prof. Hill. Dr. Brushingham will speak. Students of the seminaries and public schools and all other young people are cordially invited to be present. People of all ages welcomed heartily.

Elective Presiding Elders.
The following is the correct statement of the action taken yesterday with regard to memorializing the general conference concerning electing or appointing presiding elders.

G. W. Hunt moved as a substitute for the New York proposition on election of presiding elders, the resolution adopted by the Philadelphia conference, that the conference nominate not less than three for each vacancy, one of which shall be appointed presiding elder.

3rd ANNUAL SPECIAL SALE

On Our "Green Mountain Brand" Hams and Boneless Smoked Shoulders.

Friday and Saturday, April 17th and 18th, we are going to offer our Hams at 12 cents a pound and Boneless Smoked Shoulders at 10 1-2c cents a pound.

The "Green Mountain Brand" Hams are not as salty as the briny ocean and cut from old hogs, but are cut from corn fed native pigs here in our own market and are smoked with corn cobs, making the most delicious eating Ham that you may ask for.

Last year we sold over a ton at our Easter Special Sale. This year we expect to more than double that amount.

Do the people of Barre and vicinity appreciate a good Ham for Easter at an exceptionally low price?

We shall have fresh Strawberries Saturday.
